

KENTUCKY HOMEMAKER CREED

I believe in the home as an inspiring and happy center of family life -- comfortable and attractive -- a place for relaxation and work where pleasures and responsibilities are shared.

I believe in the home, its contribution to community life which reflects the development of the homemaker and the family.

I believe in the homemaker -- alert, diligent, in search of better ways of doing ordinary things for the welfare and happiness of the family.

I believe in the homemaker as a community leader responsible for passing on to others mastered skills and knowledge.

I believe in the fellowship that comes through the homemakers' organization -- the exchange of ideas and the joy of knowledge shared with others thus broadening our lives and lifting household tasks above the commonplace.

For these opportunities I am grateful. I am also thankful for the courage of yesterday, the hope of tomorrow and a growing consciousness of God's love always.

KEHA MISSION

Improving the quality of life for families and communities through education, leadership development, and volunteer service.

KEHA-EDUCATION

Implement a program of work for your club and county.

- Address needs of members, individuals, and families in your communities, in the state, and around the globe.
- Include goals, lessons, and projects from the eight state educational chairmen's programs of work.
- Connect club and county programs with the county FCS Extension plan of work.

KEHA-LEADERSHIP

Empower community leaders.

- Provide leadership training opportunities for members.
- Take an active role in the community.
- Inform local decision-makers of the impacts and public value of KEHA and the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

KEHA-SERVICE

Embrace and promote volunteer service.

- Volunteer to serve in a club, county, or area leadership position.
- Support Extension programs through volunteer service.
- Report volunteer time through the volunteer service unit program and leadership development report.

Cooperative Extension Service

The Cooperative Extension Service is an off-campus educational arm of the University of Kentucky and Kentucky State University. It was established by Congress with the Smith-Lever Act on May 8, 1914. "To aid in sharing among the people of the United States, useful and practical information on subjects relating to agriculture and home economics, and to encourage application of the same."

It is one of the world's largest informal educational and developmental organizations. Nearly every county in each of the fifty U.S. states has a local Extension Service, with state headquarters located at that state's Land-Grant University.

The term "Cooperative" describes the unique method of financing the Extension Service. A combination of federal, state and county monies make educational programs available to all people in the state.

COLLECT

Keep us, oh God, from pettiness; let us be large in thought,
in word, in deed,

Let us be done with fault finding and leave off self-seeking,
May we put away all pretense and meet each other face to face without self-pity and prejudice.

May we never be hasty in judgment and always generous.

Let us take time for all things; make us grow calm, serene, and gentle.
Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

Grant that we may realize it is the little things that create differences, that in the big things of life we are at one.

And may we strive to touch and know the great, common human heart of us all,

And, oh Lord, God, let us forget not to be kind.

The Collect was written by Mary Stewart of Longmont, Colorado, in 1904 as a personal prayer and without any organization in mind. The prayer was published under the title, A Collect for Club Women, because Mary felt that "women working together with wide interests for large ends was a new thing under the sun and that perhaps they had a need for a special petition and meditation of their own." The Collect has found its way around the world wherever English-speaking women work together.
